My dear Mr. Poe

I am writing to ask you to help me with some information and advice. As I will probably be breaking-up housekeeping in the next few months I have decided to part with my "excess baggage!"

I have a little accumulation of coins and paper money - among them a ¼ Bu about eighty (80) years old - this has been out of circulation eighty-five years. I have had it put away myself for 44 years! I would say it was in perfect condition. Could you advise me as to what the selling price should be?

I expect to keep up my membership in the Society I enjoy the publications so much and read every word of the "proceedings". I always hope that some time I will be able to be present at a meeting. I know I am asking a great favour. But it is out of the question for me to go to the commercial people on account of their fees. But I feel sure you will help me.

Yours very sincerely
Louise G. Logan

Dear Madam:

Mr. Noe has turned your letter over to me to answer. If you care to send your coins up here we can advise you as to their approximate worth and possibly where you could sell them. The small Japanese piece you mention is not rare. When these went out of circulation quantities of them were saved on account of their odd shape.

Very truly yours,

HW:JG
